Monday, February 25, 2019

7 - 8:30 pm (eastern time)

Marriott Griffin Gate Resort
Lexington, Kentucky

A session designed to provide parents with information and ideas to use in parenting their gifted children.

Brought to you by the
KENTUCKY ASSOCIATION FOR GIFTED EDUCATION

PARENTING THE PERFECTIONIST

with Emily Mofield, EdD

EMILY MOFIELD, EdD, is an assistant professor in the College of Education at Lipscomb University. Her background includes 15 years experience teaching gifted students and leading gifted services. Emily currently serves as the National Association for Gifted Children (NAGC) Chair for Curriculum Studies. She is a National Board Certified Teacher in language arts and has been recognized as the Tennessee Association for Gifted Children Teacher of the Year. Emily regularly presents professional development addressing the social-emotional needs of gifted learners and implementing effective differentiation strategies for advanced learners for school districts and special groups.

KAGE appreciates the support of the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority about the program:

Does your child get upset if he gets less than an A? Does she get consumed with self-doubt after turning in homework? Is your child overly self-critical and insecure, even though she has a long-list of accomplishments and accolades? Learn insights about perfectionism as it relates to gifted children and their unique characteristics. During this session, parents will learn about several ideas to help gifted children tackle fear, shame, and identity associated with the striving for perfection.

Parent Night registration is free. You do not need to be a KAGE member to attend but we hope that you will join KAGE and support our efforts to advocate and educate about gifted education in Kentucky. KAGE is the state advocacy organization for gifted children.
